

Solvista hosts Global debate 2008

National Water Week is being observed in South Africa from the 17th to the 23rd of March 2008. With this theme in mind, Solvista Secondary School in Phoenix in partnership with Umgeni Water, eThekweni Water and Sanitation, KZN Agriculture and Environmental Affairs, Siza Water, the Department of Water Affairs and Forestry and Umgeni River Bird Park hosted a Global Debate at Spes Nova School Hall on 13th of March 2008. The topic up for debate was , 'Should water be private property'.

Representatives from the different departments mentioned above were present at the debate and the four debating students were, Jolene Duleep, Renita Balgobin, Justina Chetty and Tiffany Chetty.

Global Debate is organized by The People Speak, is an educational campaign designed to engage young people on the global issues that will shape their future. The People Speak inspires young people to be a positive force for change in the world.

Solvista Secondary School is doing well in the international debating arena. They are currently in eight position, and this is in competition with schools throughout the world.
